

Eric Drick

Eric has a background of over 20 years with both commercial and military best practices supply implementation processes. While at Warner Robins, he has developed an extensive background in Air Force supply and financial systems, process modeling and data integration analysis.

Prior to this, Eric was a Senior Management Analyst with Bearing Point Consulting where he was responsible for performing detailed analysis towards logistics and financial reconciliation also supporting Warner Robins Air Logistics Center (ALC).

Eric has a BA in Political Studies from Oglethorpe University, Atlanta GA and a Masters, Science of Logistics Management, GA College and State University. He also is APICS Certified, Production and Inventory Management (CPIM)